AÇIKLAMA

1. Bu soru kitapçığındaki test 80 sorudan oluşmaktadır.
2. Bu test için verilen cevaplama süresi 150 dakikadır (2.5 saat).
3. Bu kitapçığındaki testte yer alan her sorunun sadece bir doğru cevabı vardır. Bir soru için birden çok cevap yeri işaretlenmişse o soru yanlış cevaplanmış sayılacaktır.
4. İşaretlediğiniz bir cevabı değiştirmek istediğinizde, silme işlemini çok iyi yapmanız gerektiğini unutmayınız.
5. Bu sınavın değerlendirilmesi doğru cevap sayısı üzerinden yapılacak, yanlış cevaplar dikkate alınmayacaktır.
6. Cevaplamaya istediğiniz sorudan başlayabilirsiniz. Bir soru ile ilgili cevabınızı, cevap kâğıdında o soru için ayrılmış olan yere işaretlemeyi unutmayınız.
7. Sınavda uyulacak diğer kurallar bu kitapçığın arka kapağında belirtilmiştir.

Sınavın Değerlendirilmesi:

Sınavda verilen doğru cevaplar 1.25 katsayısı ile çarpılacak ve adayın aldığı puan hesaplanacaktır. Alınan puana göre seviye şöyle belirlenecektir:

Alınan Puan	Dil seviyesi
50 – 60	E
60 – 70	D
70 – 80	C
80 – 90	B
90 – 100	A

Tüm adaylara başarılar dileriz

Nuclear weapons were first developed in the United States during the Second World War _____ (17) against Germany. However, by the time the first bombs were ready for use, the war with Germany had ended and, _____ (18), the decision was made to use the weapons against Japan instead. Hiroshima and Nagasaki have suffered the consequences of this decision to the present day. The real reasons why bombs were dropped on two heavily-populated cities are not altogether clear. A number of people in 1944 and early 1945 argued that the use of nuclear weapons would be unnecessary _____ (19) American Intelligence was aware that some of the most powerful and influential people in Japan had already realized that the war was lost, and wanted to negotiate a Japanese surrender. It was also argued that, since Japan has few natural resources, a blockade by the American navy would force it to surrender within a few weeks, and the use of nuclear weapons would thus prove unnecessary. If a demonstration of force was required to end the war, a bomb could be dropped over an unpopulated area like a desert, in front of Japanese observers, or over an area of low population inside Japan, _____ (20) a forest. Opting for this course of action might minimize the loss of further lives on all sides, while the power of nuclear weapons would still be adequately _____ (21).

Global warming could _____ (22) drought and possibly famine in China, the source of much of Hong Kong's food, by 2050, a new report predicts. Hong Kong could also be at risk from _____ (23) as sea levels rose. The report recommends building sea-walls around low-lying areas such as the new port and airport reclamations. Published by the World Wide Fund for Nature (WWF), the report, which includes work by members of the Chinese Academy of Meteorological Sciences, uses the most recent projections on climate change _____ (24) to a gloomy outlook for China. By 2050 about 30 to 40 per cent of the country will experience changes in the type of vegetation it supports, with tropical and sub-tropical forest conditions shifting northward and hot desert conditions rising in the west where currently the desert is temperate. Crop-growing areas will expand but any benefit is expected to be negated by increased evaporation of moisture, making it too dry to grow crops such as rice. The growing season also is expected to _____ (25), becoming shorter in southern and central China, the mainland's breadbasket. The rapid changes make it unlikely that plants _____ (26).

43. -46. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Influenza virus infection is a worldwide public health burden because of the significant morbidity and mortality that result from seasonal outbreaks and devastating epidemics. Despite extensive research and therapeutic measures to combat influenza virus infections, the genetic and environmental factors that impact influenza virus-induced disease susceptibility remain poorly defined. Here we report the current state of knowledge regarding the host and environmental factors that impact influenza virus susceptibility. Mouse models of influenza virus infection have led to the identification of several candidate susceptibility genes, although many of these genes have not been verified in human cohort studies. Moreover, some studies have demonstrated that preexisting conditions correlate with enhanced influenza virus-associated morbidity and mortality, and chronic exposure to cigarette smoke and alcohol increases one's risk of infection. However, there remains a lack of human-based evidence to corroborate the in vitro and animal model studies that demonstrate a role for environmental factors in the risk of influenza virus infection. Further studies are needed, particularly large cohort studies involving geographically dispersed individuals, to clarify the genetic and environmental risk factors for influenza virus-induced disease susceptibility and lead to more effective treatment strategies for infections.

43. The writer of the passage states that -----

- A) the studies carried out up to now have given us enough knowledge to conquer the influenza virus.
- B) there is no correlation between the alcohol usage and influenza virus infection.
- C) influenza virus has caused one third of the total population of the world to suffer from the infection.
- D) genes do not play a significant role in the infection of influenza virus.
- E) we need more studies, especially on the groups of people to find ways to heal infected people.

44. According to the passage, in spite of many surveys -----

- A) we still know very little about the influenza virus and the other factors impact its susceptibility.
- B) on mice, no significant data has been acquainted yet.
- C) the exact definition of the influenza virus has been reported.
- D) the influenza virus has not caused any death among people who do not smoke.
- E) nothing has been discovered about the nature of the influenza virus.

45. The main point made in the passage is that -----

- A) influenza virus infections can completely be treated thanks to extensive research.
- B) smokers have a higher chance to suffer from influenza virus.
- C) to understand the nature and the treatment of influenza virus, we need more researches.
- D) influenza virus is so dangerous and epidemic that it kills many people around the world.
- E) some preexisting factors can affect the susceptibility of influenza virus.

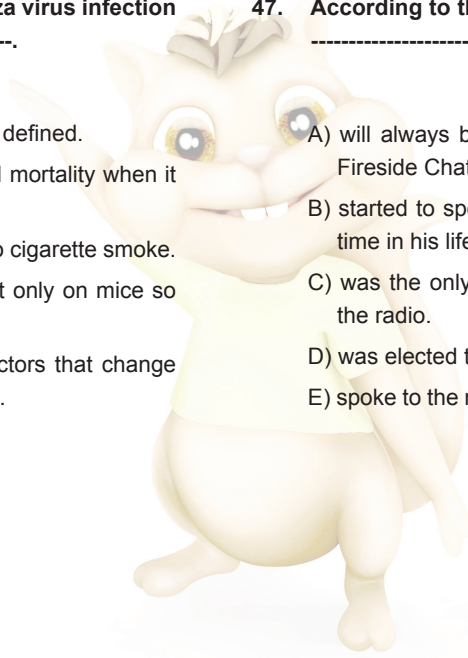

46. According to the passage, influenza virus infection is a global threat because -----.

- A) its susceptibility still remain poorly defined.
- B) it causes significant morbidity and mortality when it breaks out.
- C) people are everywhere exposed to cigarette smoke.
- D) researches have been carried out only on mice so far.
- E) there are many environmental factors that change the susceptibility of influenza virus.

- C) was the only President to address the nation over the radio.
- D) was elected the President in 1981.
- E) spoke to the nation over the radio nine times in total.

47. -50. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

When U.S. President Ronald Reagan left office in 1989, he enjoyed a reputation as one of the most rhetorically dynamic Presidents of the twentieth century. His remarkable speaking ability was not surprising because, before his transition into politics, most people remembered his career as a Hollywood movie star. By the time of his 1981 inauguration, his half century of public speaking allowed him to captivate audiences around the globe just like he did as an actor.

In 1982, Reagan began a series of Saturday radio addresses. During these addresses, he would informally address the nation on current events. Not since Franklin D. Roosevelt's Fireside Chats had an incumbent President spoken to his constituents over the radio. Initially conceived for only nine talks, the addresses' popularity ensured that he would stay on the air for the rest of his Presidency. Like Roosevelt, Reagan was socially-inclusive in order to strengthen partisan identity against the media while gaining constituent groups through the use of humor and allusions.

Ronald Reagan's public speaking career began in 1932 at the age of 21. By this time, the recent Eureka College graduate was hired as a sports radio broadcaster. The following year, Franklin D. Roosevelt became President and began the Fireside Chats radio series. Each listener received the impression that Roosevelt was talking directly to him. Millions of Americans sat at their radios and agreed that they could practically feel him physically in the room.

48. It is stated in the passage that -----

- A) Roosevelt was far better at speaking over the radio than Reagan.
- B) Reagan was a successful spokesman because he studied public relations at the university.
- C) Reagan spoke to the people on the radio on current events in a comic manner sometimes.
- D) After his presidency, Reagan went on taking roles in Hollywood films.
- E) Reagan's speaking ability had nothing to do with his career as a movie star.

49. It is implied in the passage that -----

- A) the radio show of Reagan started to lose its listeners by the course of time.
- B) the audience of the radio speeches was listening to the shows because they had nothing else to do.
- C) Reagan's radio addresses appealed to more people and gained more constituent group than Roosevelt's.
- D) Reagan's fame as a movie star had always surpassed his political career.
- E) some specialties other than being successful at politics are necessary to be a good leader in people's eyes.

50. It is stated in the passage that both Roosevelt and Reagan -----

- A) were so successful at their addresses over the radio that they had habitual listeners.
- B) graduated from Eureka Collage.
- C) were former Hollywood stars, which made them good speakers.
- D) named their addresses over the radio "Fireside Chats".
- E) addressed to the audience nine times a month.

51. It is stated in the passage that -----

- A) King Henry I of England was the first man to create an accurate calendar.
- B) our Ice Age ancestors used a primitive kind of calendar.
- C) the calendar that the Sumerians used was a little bit different than that we use today.
- D) the calendar as we know it today based on the one that the Egyptians created.
- E) some early forms of calendars were discovered in the caves in the Tigris/Euphrates valley.

51. -54. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Standards have existed since the beginning of recorded history. Some were created by royal decree. For example, King Henry I of England standardized measurement in 1120 AD by instituting the ell, which was equivalent to the length of his arm.

Some standards were an outgrowth of man's desire to harmonize his activities with important changes in the environment. Others were created in response to the needs of an increasingly complex society. One of the earliest examples of standardization is the creation of a calendar. Ancient civilizations relied upon the apparent motion of the sun, moon and stars through the sky to determine the appropriate time to plant and harvest crops, to celebrate holidays and to record important events.

Over 20,000 years ago, our Ice Age ancestors in Europe made the first rudimentary attempts to keep track of days by scratching lines in caves and gouging holes in sticks and bones. Later, as civilizations developed agriculture and began to farm their lands, they needed more precise ways to predict seasonal changes.

The Sumerians in the Tigris/Euphrates valley devised a calendar very similar to the one we use today. 5,000 years ago, the Sumerian farmer used a calendar that divided the year into 30-day months. Each day was divided into 12 hours and each hour into 30 minutes.

The Egyptians were the first to develop the 365-day calendar and can be credited with logging 4236 BC as the first year in recorded history. They based the year's measurement on the rising of the "Dog Star" or Sirius every 365 days. This was an important event as it coincided with the annual inundation of the Nile, a yearly occurrence that enriched the soil used to plant the kingdom's crops.

52. According to the passage, it is possible to say -----

- A) King Henry I of England was the first man to standardize the measurements of length.
- B) it was very easy to create a calendar for the Sumerians because they were very good at astronomy.
- C) our Ice Age ancestors made us of calendars to decide when to crop fields.
- D) man's desires to standardization were responses to different necessitates.
- E) the calendar that we use today was created in 1120 AD.

53. According to the passage, the main determiner of the early calendars was -----.

- A) the sizes of the king's body parts.
- B) the celestial bodies, especially the sun, the moon, and some certain stars.
- C) holes in sticks and bones.
- D) the seasonal changes.
- E) the annual inundation of the Nile.

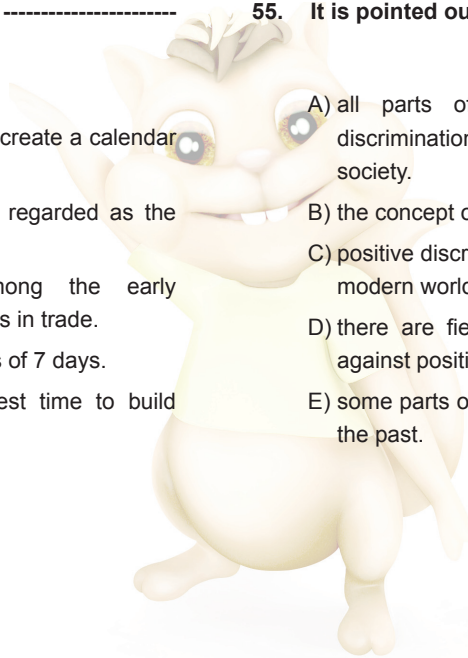

54. It is implied from the passage that -----
-----

- A) the main purpose of the efforts to create a calendar was generally agricultural based.
- B) King Henry I of England can be regarded as the father of standardization.
- C) standardization differences among the early societies resulted in disagreements in trade.
- D) In Sumerian calendar, a week was of 7 days.
- E) the Egyptians discovered the best time to build pyramids thanks to the calendars.

55. It is pointed out in the passage that -----

- A) all parts of the society agree that positive discrimination will help solve the problems in the society.
- B) the concept of positive discrimination is very clear.
- C) positive discrimination has been implemented in the modern world just recently.
- D) there are fierce fights, especially in work places against positive discrimination.
- E) some parts of the society were prejudiced against it the past.

55. -58. soruları aşağıdaki parçaya göre cevaplayınız.

Positive discrimination is the process of giving preferential treatment, especially in employment, to minority groups of society that have been prejudiced against in the past. It should be noted that 'preferential treatment' does not mean that these individuals will automatically be preferred to another candidate, but rather should two candidates be deemed a similar level, the individual from the minority group will be preferred. For example, should two candidates who are equally matched in skills go for a job and one is from a minority group and one isn't, then positive discrimination will see that the former candidate will receive the job offer.

The concept of positive discrimination is a controversial one and something that usually causes heated debate. Those who advocate against positive discrimination point to the fact that discrimination of any kind is wholly wrong. They claim that while it is unfortunate that certain minority groups have been prejudiced against in the past, by implementing a system of positive discrimination the problem is not helped.

It is argued by those against positive discrimination that not only is it wholly unfair to favor somebody on the basis of their background, but also that the whole process leads to more division in society. The reasoning for this is that people who have failed to get jobs as a result of positive discrimination, or even those that haven't but assume they have, may resent certain parts of society that have been favored, and society as a whole suffers as a result.

Nikola Tesla was one of the most brilliant inventors of history and was of an unusual intellectual vision. He is affectionately referred to as the "Father of Free Energy". Tesla was a world-renowned Serbian American inventor, physicist, mechanical engineer and electrical engineer, born in Smiljan, Austrian Empire, at present Croatia. Tesla is regarded as one of the most important inventors in history. He is also well known for his contributions to the discipline of electricity and magnetism in the late 19th and early 20th century. His patents and theoretical work form the basis of modern alternating current electric power (AC) systems, including the poly-phase power distribution systems and the AC motor, with which he helped usher in the Second Industrial Revolution.

In the United States, Tesla's fame rivaled that of any other inventor or scientist in history or popular culture. After his demonstration of wireless communication in 1893 and after being the victor in the "War of Currents", he was widely respected as America's greatest electrical engineer. Much of his early work pioneered modern electrical engineering and many of his discoveries were of groundbreaking importance. In 1947, the United States Supreme Court credited him as being the inventor of the radio. Never putting much focus on his finances, Tesla died impoverished and forgotten at the age of 86.
